

Launched in 2018, Innosual is a Brussels based communication hub which delivers comprehensive communications solutions to European federations, EU and international institutions, corporations and media. We are a single entry point for any client wishing to develop a coherent communication strategy which translates into effective audiovisual and digital communications products, events and campaigns. Innosual relies, in particular, on the experience and the expertise of all the companies of the Spanish communications group Lavinia, with whom we have concluded a strategic partnership, as well as with its company in Belgium, Alice, with more than 20 years experience in the provision of audiovisual and broadcasting services to international media and EU institutions.
